

I support limiting the number of stations any one entity can own in the national market, not just the local market. In my community we have a local TV station, and numerous local radio stations and public radio stations.

If the only media available was owned by clearchannel and one of the major TV broadcasting stations the quality would suffer. We would not have the social interaction that the current local outlets promote. Instead we would have a beamed in signal from some central location.

Surely we would be lesser for it.
